Mr. Lehman:

On December 13, 2016 – we (VolusiaExposed.Com) posted the below linked article to our website.
<http://volusiaexposed.com/corrections/sgtjenkins2122016.html>

The article exposed the apparent fact that the Volusia County Division of Corrections failed to investigate allegations that a jail sergeant was in violation of Florida State Moral Character Standards for Law Enforcement and Corrections Officers – as defined in Florida Administrative Code 11B-27.0011. (see below web link for a copy of FAC 11B-27.0011)

With NO doubt – the Corrections Director within his October 19, 2016 memorandum (see scroll box – right of page within our December 13, 2016 article) – suspected that Sgt. Jenkins violated F.S. 796.07 (engaging a prostitute).

As we (VolusiaExposed.Com) explained to your office within our below linked December 12, 2016 email to your office – a suspected violation of F.S. 796.07 – whether criminally prosecuted or NOT – must cause the employing agency to conduct an internal investigation – and if the allegations are sustained – that fact must be reported to CJSTC / FDLE for possible action against the officer's law enforcement certification.

Yesterday (Jan 2, 2017) – Channel 9 news (WFTV.com) ran the below article regarding the Sgt. Jenkins situation.
<http://www.wftv.com/news/local/volusia-county-corrections-officer-resigns-amid-investigation-request/480608893>

According to the WFTV article – a County Spokeswoman stated that they (Volusia) did NOT open the required internal investigation – due to the fact that Sgt. Jenkins had resigned.

As you know – and as published within a May 2010 CJSTC Professional Compliance Bulletin – the employing agency must still conduct this internal investigation – regardless of the officer's employment status. (see the below linked August 10, 2015 Volusia Exposed article – this May 2010 CJSTC Professional Compliance Bulletin is incorporated within this particular article)

We submit – that you have a responsibility, as defined in F.S. 943.1395(5) - to insure that Volusia County conducts this internal investigation. We further submit - that should your office fail to uphold this responsibility – FDLE's investigative credibility regarding officer misconduct investigations with be jeopardized.

In short Mr Lehman – it's our opinion – that both the public - and Sgt. Jenkins are being short changed absent the completion of this legally mandated investigation.

Again – as per our December 12, 2016 email – we request to be advised whether your office will insure that Volusia County meets their statutory obligation to internally investigation these allegations against Sgt. Jenkins.

We anticipate posting this email – as an OPEN LETTER.

Regards,
