Mr. Davis:

Please accept this as my follow up email regarding our earlier telephone conversation.(see earlier email below)

During this telephone conversation, you advised me that FDLE did not have the authority or responsibility to investigate my concerns regarding in-custody deaths at the Volusia County jail.

Since our conversation, Governor Scott has instructed the Florida Department of Law Enforcement to investigate the possible hazing death of a college student.

Interesting, how FDLE apparently does not have the authority to investigate whether jail officers and sheriff deputies are falsifying reports regarding in-custody deaths, situations VolusiaExposed can support with documents - but FDLE can investigate the "possibility" that this student's death was connected to hazing.

Obviously, the Governor was not serious about his commitment to root out public corruption.

Tallahassee was also slow on the uptake when it came to the Volusia County Beach Patrol sex scandal. Initially, neither FDLE or our local State Attorney could find any criminal wrong doing regarding allegations that Beach Patrol law enforcement officers were engaging in sex with underage girls. Now several officers have been criminally charged and / or terminated from employment due to this ever expanding scandal.

It may or may not interest you that the Beach Patrol and the County Jail are maintained under the same Department of Public Protection.

Either way, this email serves one of two purposes - it either enlightens you enough, so that, you now realize that these matters deserve proper investigation OR it memorializes the fact that your office knew and did nothing to correct the situation.

I assume you will opt for option 2 - therefore, I have opened a web page to memorialize your knowledge. VolusiaExposed.Com has made a commitment / pledge to see that these matters are properly addressed. Know this, unlike the governor, VolusiaExposed takes it's commitments very seriously.
